Sophie Macintosh

This letter is intended to express my interest in the field of social media/ digital marketing. I have always had an interest in marketing with my most favoured part of studying media being to analyse styles of marketing and learn how advertisements are adapted to reach a specific demographic. I also have some experience in this field. For example, over the summer of 2022 I worked in the department of sales and marketing for an IoT company whilst also volunteering as a writer for an online magazine based in Manchester.

Whilst working in marketing, I have become familiar with using Trello to pitch article ideas and WordPress to edit and upload website content. Whilst volunteering for online magazine Northern Noise, I wrote multiple articles showcasing some of my favourite places to visit in Manchester, from where to go for a unique night out, to dog friendly ice cream parlours and independent cinemas. This was something I really enjoyed as it helped me to develop my own style of writing.

During my employment as marketing assistant for an IoT company, I was tasked with writing blog posts and social media posts for the company's LinkedIn page and other social media accounts. This was challenging for me as I was completely new to the IoT industry. However, through researching and attending meetings with clients, I was able to adapt to my surroundings easily whilst also learning as much as possible about the industry. During meetings, I was also tasked with creating social media content to promote networking events and talks carried out by clients.

Moreover, alongside written material, I also have experience in using Canva to create visuals to work well alongside my written content. For example, as part of one of my marketing modules at university, I created a 40-page report on Canva to illustrate how our group helped our assigned client achieve their goals on social media and recommendations moving forward. To achieve this, I created a bespoke template that replicated their existing print-based marketing collateral and included our own group photography, and graphics alongside written content that I also helped to write.

Thank you for your time, I look forward to hearing from you..

Yours Sincerely,
Sophie Macintosh
